Faculty of Agriculture

On the 26.04.2021. at the University of Bijeljina, a hackaton promotion was held. The promotion was held for students of the Faculty of Agriculture, University of Bijeljina. Hackaton, which is held in Banja Luka in the period 20-22.05.2021. was presented by Petar Nikolić, a member of the "VIRAL" project team from the Faculty of Agriculture, University of Banja Luka.

During the presentation, a promotional video was shown, it was explained what is hackaton, where and when it's going to be and how to apply.

Emphasis is placed on the benefits that all participants are going to achieve. These benefits are pointed at encouraging creative thinking, teamwork, proper approach to the problem and the development of new skills. Valuable prizes that are expected by the finalist and other participants were also presented. The problems in agriculture production that are going to be the topic of this hackathon are presented so that potential participants can already think about solutions.
